PRESIDENT'S CORNER

William C. Garry

In March when the Bar Commission made the decision to move forward with an “in-person” Bar Convention, we were cautiously optimistic that a majority of Bar Members would be fully vaccinated by June and willing to come to the Convention and participate in all of the CLEs, social events and business meeting. Fortunately, our optimism paid off with nearly 650 attendees at the Convention. Thanks to Andy Fergel and the Bar Staff for their hard work in making the Convention a huge success.

At the business meeting, the proposed amendment to the State Bar of South Dakota Bylaws to increase active member dues by $100, CLE fees by $25, and inactive member dues by $25 passed with an overwhelming majority vote. The dues increase will become effective for 2022, and will be reflected on your November invoice. Historically, through conservative fiscal management, dues have only been increased approximately every ten years. It is anticipated we will not have to raise dues for another 8 – 10 years and the increase will allow the Bar to expand on programs deemed important by the Strategic Planning Committee.

Congratulations to Harvey Jewett, this year’s recipient of the McKusick Award and to the 20 members of the Bar honored as 50-year veterans.

Newly elected Bar Commissioners are as follows: Francy Foral, John Richter, Rory King and Jacob Tiede. A special thanks to outgoing Commissioners Dusty Ginsbach, Eddie Hruska, Aaron Pilcher and Josh Wurgler for their hard work and dedicated service to the Bar.

Also, a special thanks to Terry Westergaard for his passionate and dedicated leadership during yet another difficult year caused by the pandemic. I was often impressed by Terry’s calm and thoughtful approach to dealing with the variety of issues that arose during his term.

Although many of you know me, some of you may know nothing about me. I grew up in Dell Rapids where I graduated from High School. I obtained my undergraduate degree from South Dakota State University and my Juris Doctor degree from the University of South Dakota. Following a clerkship for a Federal Judge in Pierre, I returned to Sioux Falls where I have been practicing with Cadwell Sanford Deibert & Garry LLP ever since. My law practice consists primarily of civil litigation and alternative dispute resolution. My wife, Mary Kay, and I have two children, Charlie and Meg, both of whom reside in Sioux Falls.

Although the Bar has faced many challenges in the past year and a half, we proved to be a resourceful and resilient organization. We were flexible, creative and persistent. We learned to adapt to a virtual world. I read recently that overcoming adversity is a necessary step to greatness. I am confident our Bar will be greater than ever in the years to come.

I am humbled by this opportunity and look forward to serving you.

State Bar of South Dakota
YOUNG LAWYER SECTION

Ole Oleson
YLS President

I have been honored for the last several years to serve on the board of the Young Lawyers Section (YLS) of the State Bar of South Dakota. Now, I am honored for the opportunity to serve as the President of the YLS for the next 12 months. I cannot stress enough to the young lawyers in South Dakota the importance of giving back and serving others. If you are interested in ways that you can help, please do not hesitate to reach out.

I promise not to make all of my columns relate to my daughter, but I wanted to start this one out right:

I am relatively new to parenting and have an amazing 2-year-old (she will be 2 when you read this). She caught her first fish the other day on her Frozen 2 fishing pole. As you can imagine, her father is very proud. Anyone that has had a 2-year-old also knows that her father did most of the catching of that first fish.

I tied her hook, I baited the hook, I cast the line, I set the hook, I held the pole, I helped her reel, and finally I removed the hook once we had the fish on shore. None-the-less, she caught that fish.

Being a first-time parent, there are a lot of things that I have learned. Most importantly, I have learned that humans start life off not really knowing how to do anything, and nobody really expects us to know anything at first. I know that I will take my daughter fishing many more times where I will do most of the things that are necessary to catch a fish, but I also know that each time she will do a little bit more until she finally does all of it herself. At some point in our lives, many of us begin to think that the people around us expect us to just know how to do things. The reality is that we still need someone to tie that first hook for us.

The practice of law really is no different. The expectation is not that young lawyers will know how to do everything and hit the road running full steam ahead. Rather, the expectation is that you have the ability to learn from the lawyers around you and that you will ask someone to help you when you need it. I cannot speak to how it is in other states, but I can tell you that my experience in South Dakota has been that there are ample mentors available. In fact, I cannot think of a single time that someone has turned down helping me when asked. In my view, one of the most important functions of the YLS is fostering mentor/mentee relationships for young lawyers across South Dakota.

Below is a list of our 2021-22 YLS Board:

President – Ole Olesen (Rapid City)

Vice-President – Anthony Sutton (Sioux Falls)

Secretary/Treasurer – Kelsey Weber (Rapid City)

1st Circuit Representative – Mallory Schulte (Yankton)

2nd Circuit Representative – Tyler Coverdale (Sioux Falls)

3rd Circuit Representative – Anthony Teesdale (Brookings)

4th Circuit Representative – Mariah Bloom (Spearfish)

5th Circuit Representative – Jason Erickson (Aberdeen)

6th Circuit Representative – Chelsea Wenzel (Pierre)

7th Circuit Representative – Katelyn Cook (Rapid City)

At Large Representative – Arman Zeljkovic (Rapid City)

Law Student Representative – MarieClair Christenson (Vermillion)

Please reach out to your Circuit Representative if you need help finding a mentor. Also, watch your emails and this newsletter for opportunities to network and interact with new mentors. There is no hard and fast rule on how many people you can learn from, so why limit yourself?

In the year ahead, you can expect the YLS to continue its great programming. I would like to thank my predecessor, Carrie Srstka, for holding everything together during a frustrating year that made much of what the YLS does difficult, if not impossible. And I'd also like to thank the YLS Board Members for agreeing to give back to our membership and work hard in the year to come.

Fellows of the South Dakota Bar Foundation

Many South Dakota lawyers have risen to the challenge of making the SD Bar Foundation a favorite charity. Such generosity deserves public acknowledgement. Therefore, the Bar Foundation Board of Directors has created a "Fellows" program to not only make such acknowledgement, but also to provide an opportunity for more of our members to participate and determine their personal level of professional philanthropy. Participation can be on an annual basis or by pledge with payments over a period of time. All contributions made to the "Fellows" program will be deposited in the Foundation's endowment account managed by the SD Community Foundation – famous for low management fees and excellent investment returns. Donations to the endowment are tax deductible and a perpetual gift to our profession and the educational endeavors and charities the Foundation supports.

Raising the Bar: Our Profession. Our Responsibility.

Dean's List: News from the Law School

by: Neil Fulton
Dean
USD

Knudsen School of Law

It would be easy to provide a Law School report that just updated facts and figures. We are certainly happy with our bar passage and placement rates returning to 90%. It is exciting to talk about the more than 85 students we will welcome to the Class of 2024 in a few weeks. It would be topical to recap our COVID-19 responses that limited us to just over 20 students and faculty testing positive and our classes being delivered successfully under the circumstances. These are important facts, but I want to talk about three big ideas facing the Law School and the profession and our need to work together to address them.

First, we must be aware of an impending demographic cliff. Between 2025 and 2036 the number of high school graduates is forecasted to decrease significantly from current levels. That is driven by declines in both birth rate and projected number of students electing higher education. For the Law School and the legal profession, this means fewer students who can go to law school and more intense competition with other graduate programs as well as among law schools for the best students. In a few short years we will have fewer students available, more intense competition to attract them, and greater need to do so as the legal profession undergoes generational turnover.

This issue challenges us all; an effective response will require all of us. The Law School and the Bar are initiating programs intended to attract students to the law as early as high school and junior high. In the past year the Law School presented at the South Dakota Department of Labor's Week of Work program. We hosted an inaugural law camp in cooperation with federal, state, and tribal courts; public and private lawyers; court personnel; law enforcement; and several postsecondary education programs connected to the law. Research indicates that the earlier students think about a career in the law and develop a personal connection with a lawyer, the more likely they are to go to law school. These types of cooperative efforts to attract student attention early in their school days are therefore imperative. They will require participation by all sorts of legal professionals across South Dakota and all settings where lawyers are found. That includes each of us.

For now, I would ask everyone to do two things. First, think about ways in which you might be able to build connections to students in high school and even earlier to boost their interest in the law. Second, share your ideas with me or a member of the State Bar Strategic Planning Committee as we work to identify and coordinate those efforts. Our profession faces a significant challenge for its future and our collective response will be imperative to our collective success.

The second issue we face is the shifting expectation of what makes a "well prepared" law school graduate and how our curriculum is shifting to keep up. The National Conference of Bar Examiners is revamping the bar exam to increase focus on aligned knowledge of core doctrine and skills. This presents the opportunity and challenge of realigning the law school curriculum to ensure that our graduates not only have command of key bodies of law and legal skills but an effective integration of the two. It is not easy to teach both well at the same time; making these adjustments inside the Law School will not be quick or convenient, but we are beginning that work.

Additionally, we increasingly need to prepare law students for professionalism and civic engagement. One need only pick up a newspaper or turn on a television to see that American society is in grave danger of losing its ability to constructively and sustainably engage on matters of public concern. I believe, and will always believe, that the character of our public debates will be driven largely by the character of our lawyers. The Law School is therefore developing supplemental programs focused on professionalism. Over the course of three years students will work on the skills of leadership, civility, professional conduct, and the other "soft skills" that make a great lawyer. It does not matter much how brilliant and well prepared a young lawyer is if nobody wants to work with them. It does not much matter how many lawyers we recruit to law school if we do not form them appropriately and the profession slowly loses its integrity. In coming years we will ask those of you out there living careers of integrity and professionalism to come home to the Law School and share your example with the next generation of law students. To paraphrase Proverbs, “train up a law student in the way they should go, and when in practice they will not depart from it.”

The third issue facing the Law School as we move beyond COVID is remaining a community of excellence, service, and leadership. The first word matters every bit as much as the last three but has been the hardest to sustain through the isolation that COVID imposed. The greatest things we will do as a school and as a profession will be done together. Restoring our community is a key issue facing the Law School in coming days.

Because we are South Dakota's law school, our community includes everyone interested in the law in South Dakota. Whether you are an alumni or not, wherever you work, and whether or not you have had significant connection to the law school so far, you are part of our community and we want to be part of yours. We are the home of the law in South Dakota and your home as lawyers. We want you to come home and interview students, judge competitions, serve as adjuncts, or provide guest lectures. We want to be in your community too. Faculty want to present at CLEs and work with practitioners on new developments in the law. I want to come speak at your local bar association event, your Kiwanis or Rotary meeting, or in your conference room over a cup of coffee. Community is critical to our success; we have no more important issue facing us than re-invigorating our community after COVID.

I would like to end with a thought I heard at a bar convention some years ago from Judge Jon Sogn who said, “it's a great day to be a lawyer.” Judge Sogn is right: it is a great day to be a lawyer. Every day. The profession has given me more than I can hope to give it; I hope you feel the same way. Every day that I get to walk in the law school I remain thrilled about the opportunity to have a hand in shaping the future of our profession through the next generation of law students. The future presents significant challenges, but it is a great day to be a lawyer and meet them. We will do so as a community excellence, service, and leadership. There is no community that I would rather be part of. It is going to be great.

GOVERNOR COE I. CRAWFORD (6TH GOVERNOR OF SOUTH DAKOTA 1907-1909)

Fifteen lawyers have served as Governor of South Dakota. The life size bronze statue of Governor Coe I. Crawford, certainly one of the most prominent lawyers to serve as South Dakota's chief executive, arrived at its permanent location on the Trail of Governors in front of the office of State Bar following its unveiling on June 11, 2021. Accompanying the 28 statues of former Governors currently on the Trail, he will be joined by the last three including Beresford attorney W.J. Bulow, 12th Governor of South Dakota (1972-1931) in June of 2022 when the initial phase of the Trail is completed.

Before statehood Crawford served as the first Hughes County State's Attorney and in the Territorial Legislative Council. After South Dakota became a State he was Attorney General and later opened a law practice in Huron where he represented the Chicago & North Western Railroad. Elected Governor in 1906, Crawford went on to become US Senator, returning to Huron to practice with his son until his death in 1944.

If you or your firm would like to be included, please send your tax-deductible contribution to: Trail of Governors, % South Dakota Community Foundation, 2310 Patron Parkway, Pierre, SD 57501. Please note on check: Trail of Governors (TOG) and Governor Crawford. ## RESOLUTION OF THE STATE BAR OF SOUTH DAKOTA

WHEREAS, the State Bar of South Dakota is created for, among other things, the betterment of the administration of justice in South Dakota, and directed under SDCL 16-17-2 "to furnish a legal entity through which the considered judgment of its members on matters affecting the judicial system of the state may be ascertained and made available to the courts and the Legislature";

WHEREAS, the State Bar of South Dakota acknowledges that the judiciary serves a substantial and important role in our democratic way of life, including the resolution of civil and criminal disputes, which improves commerce and economic opportunities for our citizens, preserves order and ensures justice;

WHEREAS, in 2007 the UJS Court Reporter Committee was appointed by former Chief Justice David Gilbertson with its mission to explore innovative ways to provide court reporting services and recruit and retain qualified court reporters and that since its inception this ongoing committee, in executing its mission, is dedicated to the quality and integrity of the court record and to using court reporters to produce this record;

WHEREAS, the Committee continues to support official and freelance court reporters and the importance of court reporting positions in the Unified Judicial System versus electronic reporting methods;

WHEREAS, the number of official and freelance court reporters continues to decline in South Dakota and nationwide;

WHEREAS, continuing a strong and highly qualified pool of court reporters is crucial for the betterment of the administration of justice in South Dakota;

BASED UPON THE ABOVE AND FOREGOING, IT IS HEREBY

RESOLVED that the State Bar of South Dakota supports the efforts of the UJS Court Reporter Committee to continue its mission of recruiting and retaining qualified court reporters for the betterment of the administration of justice in South Dakota.

THIS RESOLUTION was approved by the membership of the South Dakota State Bar at its annual meeting on June 18, 2021.

Dated this 21st day of June, 2021.

William C. Garry, President
State Bar of South Dakota

I once asked several of our claims attorneys to identify the top habits they felt new lawyers should develop from day one. With one exception, the list they provided covered the habits I expected they would prioritize. And yet, the more I thought about that one exception, the more I realized how spot on they were. In short, every lawyer should make writing well a habit and here's why.

The professional writing you do, be it an email to a client, a brief filed with a court or a response to opposing counsel can too easily say more than you might intend. For instance, think about the hastily written email composed with little forethought, a legal brief impetuously penned under a time crunch or an emotionally written response to opposing counsel. In short order, you could come to realize that, well as the Hagrid character from the Harry Potter series would sometimes say, "I shouldn't have said that."

The correct choice of words and proper grammar matter because poor writing often results in the sending of a secondary and unintended message that says something about your competency, civility or even your integrity. The better the writing, the lower the risk.

Start by being intentional, as opposed to impulsive. To allow your emotions to get the better of you with any work-related writing is simply asking for trouble. Better yet, if time permits, read aloud what you've written or set it aside and come back to review it a day later. Either approach can help you avoid saying something you might later regret.

Next, be concise and write to your audience. For example, if your audience is a nonscientist, which of the following two sentences more clearly answers the question what color is the sky? 1) "Only on days when the sky isn't completely saturated with an aerosol of a visible mass of minute liquid droplets, the gas molecules that make up the earth's atmosphere will, through a process called Rayleigh scattering, absorb light waves with shorter wavelengths then radiate this energy back out into the sky in many different directions which will result in anyone standing on the ground on such a day seeing a blue sky," or 2) "On clear days, the sky is blue." The second sentence is always going to be the better choice.

In a similar vein, use plain English instead of confusing legalese because any writing full of gobbledygook serves no one. Consider poorly drafted legal documents. If the understanding you intended to convey is eventually misinterpreted by one or more of the parties due to the inclusion of such gibberish, you may eventually have a serious problem on your hands.

Finally, proofread everything you write and don't rely on spellcheck. Better still, have someone else review what you've written for two reasons. First, a fresh set of eyes can often catch a few typos you've been missing; and second, it's a great way to confirm that your words are being interpreted correctly.

Brooks Christenson
August 20, 1984 - June 08, 2021

On August 20, 1984 in Yankton, South Dakota, Bob and Kris Anne Christenson gifted the world a son, R. Brooks Christenson. He was the oldest of four children. Brooks left this world on June 8th, 2021 at Avera McKennan Hospital due to complications from pneumonia.

After Brooks' birth the family moved from Vermillion, South Dakota to Sioux Falls where Brooks was educated in the Sioux Falls Public School System at Longfellow Elementary, Patrick Henry Middle School and Lincoln High School where Brooks graduated in 2003. Brooks was an All-State soccer goalie for Lincoln High School and traveled to Europe with the United Soccer Club.

After high school Brooks spent a year abroad on a Rotary Exchange Program in Romania living with the Schiau family. He went on to graduate from the University of South Dakota (USD) Magna Cum Laude in 2008 with a bachelor's degree in International Relations.

While attending USD, Brooks worked as a Research Assistant in the Government Research Bureau. His work included research on Disparate Sentencing in the Native American Community, Project Safe Neighborhoods: Domestic Gun Violence in South Dakota, and Job Task Analysis of South Dakota Law Enforcement Personnel. USD Professor Emeritus Dr. Steve Feimer shared that Brooks was one of the best research assistants he has worked with in his 30 years at the University of South Dakota.

Brooks attended USD School of Law and graduated with his Juris Doctorate in 2012. USD Law Professor Thomas Horton described Brooks well by writing, "Brooks was a beautiful person, who brought joy to all of us who had the pleasure of getting to know him. I still remember the first day of school, when Dean Vickrey had each of the 1Ls introduce themselves to the assembled faculty and new students. Dean Vickrey asked each of the new students to talk briefly about something they enjoyed in life such as a hobby. Brooks broke the tension in the courtroom by wryly stating that he 'enjoyed long walks on the beach'. Brooks was kind, caring, and generous, and incredibly intelligent. He was an active member of our trial team, and a great addition to each class he took."

In 2015, Brooks graduated from the University of Denver's Josef Korbel School of International Studies with a Master's Degree in Organizational Management, Global Health, and Political Theory. Most recently, he was a consultant through his business RBC Consulting, LLC. serving as a grant writer and advisor for non-profits. He worked on leading efforts to combat global poverty. This work resulted in a trip to Africa.

Brooks was committed to doing what he could to promote a healthy environment by riding his bicycle whenever he could – summer or winter.

Brooks had a passion for music, politics, traveling, good food, crafting beer, reading, and spending time with family and friends. Most recently, Brooks collaborated with Badger Clark Publishing Company and supervised the publication of two books, Clark Stories and Rattlesnake Summer. He was an esteemed member of the Badger Clark Poetry Club and a Badger Clark Foundation Board of Directors member.

Brooks was preceded in death by his grandparents, Burton and Jean Christenson, and Albert Bot, his uncles Jono Bot and David Christenson Sr., and his cousins Libby Fritsch and Thomas England. He is survived by his adoring parents, Bob and Kris Anne Christenson (Sioux Falls), his brother, Jono (Sioux Falls), and his sisters, Kaitlin (Denver, CO) and MarieClaire (Sioux Falls). As well as countless aunts, uncles, cousins, and many special friends.

In lieu of flowers, the family requests donations be made to the Badger Clark Foundation, 400 North Main Avenue, Sioux Falls, South Dakota or the charity of your choice that positively impacts the lives of others, which would be Brooks' wish.

If you have any photos or stories you would like to share with the family, we ask that you please e-mail them to rememberingbrooks@gmail.com. A hard-copy book containing all that is shared will be made for the family, and the e-mail account will be given to them so that they have digital copies of all that is provided.

Jeffrey Paul Maks

Jeffrey Paul Maks, 61, passed away Wednesday, June 16th, 2021 at Monument Health Hospital in Rapid City, SD after a courageous battle with cancer.

Jeff was born in Portland, OR to Stephen Wayne Maks and Mary Rosalind (Hartnett) Maks, the third of four children. Jeff grew up in Portland up until his senior year of high school when he moved to Sturgis, SD. Following his high school graduation, Jeff went on to earn his baccalaureate degree in political science from Creighton University in Omaha, NE before earning his juris doctorate in 1985 from the University of South Dakota in Vermillion, SD. Jeff spent the next 36 years practicing law with and alongside countless colleagues that grew so fond of Jeff, as he did of them.

During law school Jeff spent time in Rapid City interning at Lynn Jackson Law firm where he met the love of his life and soulmate, Dory. The two were instantly drawn to one another and quickly fell in love. In their almost 33 years of marriage, Jeff and Dory built an incredible life, home and family together. In 1991 they welcomed their first child, Christopher, into the world. Shortly after in 1995, they welcomed their second child, Courtney into their loving family.

Growing up in Oregon, Jeff always had a special place in his heart for the outdoors. It began with family trips to the coast or Bend, OR when he was young. When he moved to the Black Hills he consistently could be found camping, hiking, or biking the Mickelson Trail with his family. As his kids got older, Jeff put all of his energy into their athletics whether it was coaching baseball and basketball for both kids or, as they grew older being their number two fan in the stands (number one being their mother of course). His family was his world, and they will miss him deeply.

Just like his family, Jeff's friends were a central part of his life. From Water Buffalo camping trips to Jimmy Buffet parties to annual golf trips with law school buddies, Jeff was there for it all. He was so fiercely and deeply loved by so many that knew him. Jeff was caring, generous, selfless, loyal, determined and a loving dad, husband, brother, friend, colleague and so much more.

Jeff is survived by his wife, Dory, children Chris (Carlyn) of Rapid City, SD and Courtney (Aaron) of Rochester, MN. His older brothers Dan (Susie) of Portland, OR, Pat (Susie) of Columbus, OH, his little sister Stephanie (JT) of Omaha, NE, his brothers-in-law Keith (Kathy) of Aurora, CO, Dan (Evelyn) and his sister-in-law Mary (Scott) both of Lafayette, CO as well as numerous nieces, nephews and friends that felt more like family.

He was preceded in death by his parents Stephen and Mary Maks, his Aunt Margaret, Aunt Marlene and Uncle Dave.

A memorial has been established in Jeff's name to the South Dakota Game, Fish, & Parks Outdoor Campus - West, Youth Programs.

Robert Weeks

May 30, 1940 - June 2, 2021

Robert ("Bob") Shawkey Weeks passed away on June 2, 2021, in Chapel Hill, North Carolina, surrounded by his family.

Born in Aberdeen, South Dakota on May 30, 1940 to the late Dr. I.D and Virginia (Shawkey) Weeks, Bob was raised in Vermillion, South Dakota, where his father was President of the University of South Dakota. Bob grew up loving horses and competed in equitation and three-gaited horse show classes throughout the United States, and became a National Champion in equitation.

Bob earned both his B.A. (1962) and J.D. (1969) degrees from the University of South Dakota. He served in the Army from 1962-1966 as a 1st Lieutenant in the 51st Battalion in Erlangen, Germany, and was Airborne trained. He built his career as a banker and Trusts & Estates attorney in Minneapolis and Winona, Minnesota, and Sioux Falls, South Dakota.

Bob loved nature in all its landscapes and forms. He was an avid birder with an encyclopedic knowledge of bird species and their songs, and relished and kept careful track of his sighting of thousands of varieties. A voracious reader, Bob devoured biographies and military history, as well as four newspapers daily. He was an enthusiastic traveler and Antarctica was the only continent to elude him. Bob had homing pigeon instincts and could always find his way without a map, and decades later could recall the specific names of streets, restaurants, and other places of interest. Bob was also a lifelong athlete; in addition to decades of tennis, running, and walking, he completed eight marathons, multiple Birkebeiner 55-km cross-country ski races, and countless miles of canoeing, portaging, and camping in the Boundary Waters Canoe Area.

Bob leaves a family who adored and admired him, and will be forever grateful for his patience, gentleness, optimism, kindness, and loving nature: his devoted wife and teammate of 59 years, M.J., their son Sean Weeks (Liz) of Minot, ND and daughter Megan Weeks of Boston, MA, and five granddaughters: Maggie and Emmie Weeks and Annie, Kate, and Alex Adams.
